Driver of the potato truck, Robert J. Kau, North Berlin, Wis., was injured in the crash. Herbert E. Rodman, Kansasville, Wis., driver of the milk truck, was booked on failure to yield right of way. Mashed potatoes were plentiful.

Cast In Final Rehearsals For Famed 'Tender Trap'

Members of the cast of "The Tender Trap" are putting finishing touches on rehearsals in preparation for the two-night run of the three-act comedy Friday and Saturday, April 28-29, at the high school.

The famed play originally opened in New York in 1954, where it enjoyed a lengthy run, and again in Chicago, where it established records.

"The Tender Trap," since adapted to a motion picture starring Frank Sinatra, has been one of the more popular plays for summer and amateur theatre groups.

"The Tender Trap" is being produced here by a local group known as the Palette, Masque & Lyre, organized to provide entertainment and promote enthusiasm in all areas of the arts. The upcoming production is the group's first presentation. Plans call for another production in the summer and a musical later in the year.

In announcing programming, director John Jessup was enthusiastic about progress of rehearsals, and promised a highly professional production in unique settings.

The cast: Dave Nelson, Elgin, as Charlie Reeder; Jean Seemann as Julie Gillis; Sarah Barnhardt, Algonquin, as Sylvia Crewes; Larry Welch as Joe McCall; Dr. Al Bucar as Earl Lindquist; Marcia Palmer as Poppy Matson; Virginia Dotson as Jessica Collins; and Homer LaPlant as Sol Schwartz.

Curtain time will be 8:15 p.m. both nights.

Tickets are now on sale at The Antioch News, the State Bank of Antioch, and from any member of the cast or production staff.

Gerald M. Crichton, Rt. 1, Lake Villa, is the first winner in this area of a merchandise prize in a national telephone quiz program being conducted by Ford's Tractor & Implement Div. for dealer sales. Crichton provided the right answers to questions he was asked.

The winner is employed at Lake-land Tractor & Equipment.

3 Drivers Grounded

Action taken by the division included: revocation of license of John A. Kamholtz, Rt. 2, Venetian Village, driving while intoxicated; license revoked for Paul E. Penrod, Rt. 3, Lake Villa, permitted fraudulent use of license; license suspended, Gayleard E. Hacker, Box 167, Antioch, three offenses.

Car Crash in Texas Kills Seaman, Former Resident

Highway mishaps took a large toll over the weekend with one former resident dead and several injured.

Dead was Donald L. Haberkamp, 30, 162 Bridgewood, Antioch, reported in a press release to have been killed Sunday when his car left the highway and ran into a tree at Crockett, Tex. A woman companion with Haberkamp was reported as injured. Haberkamp was in the merchant marine.

Claremont Ave., Chicago, was struck by Rochford's car as she crossed a street. Rochford told police heavy snow prevented him from seeing her.

head-on collision Sunday on Rt. 45 south of Millburn Rd. in Newport Township. They included the driver of one car, Doris J. Sankey, 40, of RFD 2, Antioch.

Mrs. Sankey told deputies her car slid on the slick pavement into the path of another car. Injured with Mrs. Sankey were four occupants of the other car, driven by Allie E. Grace, Chicago.

The injured were taken to Zion Community Hospital.

August Fenahuer, Chicago, was injured Sunday morning when a car in which he was a passenger overturned on Rt. 173 missing the approach to Ackerman's bridge, near here.

Dump the Razors, Men - It's Beard Growing Time

"Brothers of the Bush" will make their appearance as summer rolls in if members of the Moose have their say.

This became apparent this week as Moose members readied plans for a super-beard growing contest to herald Antioch's Civil War Centennial June 23-24.

Over the objections of vendors of men's toiletries, who foresee a dwindling market for their wares, Moose men this week announced ground rules for contest:

(1) Contest officially opens today. Shaving permits will go on sale. "Either pay through the nose or sprout with the chin," say the Moose.

(2) Entrants to register at Moose Hall, Snow White Restaurant or The Antioch News.

(3) Judging to be done June 25.

(4) Prizes to be awarded for the longest, neatest, most unusual chin-pile—booby prize for the worst.

In other action, the Moose also announced a costume contest for women and children. Costumes of the Civil War period will be judged on authenticity, originality, and workmanship. Judging will be June 24.

Mr. and Mrs. N. E. Sibley, of Bluff Lake, left Wednesday morning for Dayton, Ohio, to visit their daughter, Mrs. Richard Carter, and family.

Resigns Fair Post After 25 Years

WILMOT, Wis.—M. M. Schnurr, principal of Wilmot High School, has resigned as president of the Kenosha County Fair, a post he has held for 25 years.

Schnurr's action, which came as a surprise to the board, was prompted by "circulation of falsehoods" about him and fair operations, Schnurr said.

He announced that while he will relinquish his duties as president and manager of the fair, he will continue as a director.

Schnurr has been connected with the fair for the past 35 years and as its president for 25. In his letter of resignation, he said that he had considered resigning last year when the situation was reviewed by the directors.

Junior Chamber Being Formed;

A major step in organizing a local Junior Chamber of Commerce will get underway at a dinner meeting tonight at Lorenz's Smart Country House.

Groundwork for the new group was laid two weeks ago when representatives of the Waukegan Jr. C. of C. met here with local representatives interested in forming a group in Antioch. Present from Antioch at the meeting were Donald and Robert Lubkeman, David Buck and Kenneth Rentner.

In announcing the organizational meeting tonight, Robert Lubkeman extended an invitation to all men between 21 and 35 interested in community improvement and civic progress to attend. He stressed that all residents, including businessmen, were welcome.

The dinner-meeting will start at 7:30 p.m. and will be followed by selection of a steering committee and discussion of future planning.

Accompanying the high school entries was Tom Wojnowski, seventh-grader at Grass Lake School, who won a second with his exhibit on "Soil and Water Conservation."

The fair is staged by the Illinois Academy of Science. Students first participate on a local level, then district, and finally state.

STUDENTS EXHIBIT displays which won them first place in the District Science Fair last weekend at Highland Park. Not shown is exhibit of James Fournier, on weather, which also won a first place. By winning Saturday, these high school entries earned the right to compete in the State Science Fair.

Peak Turnout Names Entire Slate to Posts

A near-record number of voters turned out Tuesday to return the entire Peoples Party slate to village office.

Approximately 90 per cent of the village's estimated 775 eligible voters visited the polling place Tuesday to cast ballots, a tribute to the balmy weather following the weekend storm.

Returned to office for another four years were incumbents Murrill Cunningham, president; Clarence B. Shultis, clerk; Ernest M. Glenn and John M. Blackman, trustees.

Newcomers to office are Richert Folbrick, former justice of the peace, who was elected police magistrate, and H. Roger Williams, trustee.

Shultis, running for his third term as clerk, paced the party with 670 votes. Cunningham received 521, Blackman, 539, Glenn, 493, Williams, 463; and Folbrick, 436.

Opposing Cunningham was write-in candidate Walter Delaney, with 147 votes. Other candidates were E. Elmer Brook, 102; and Herbert W. Horton, 171, running for police magistrate; and Raymond Toft, who made a close race as an independent for trustee with 412.

Hold-over members of the board are trustees Edmund F. Vos, Herman Holbek and David Nissen, who will serve until 1963.

Serving as election officials were Mrs. Carolyn Horan, Mrs. Mary Ellis, Mrs. Mary Ehner, Mrs. Vera Horton and Arthur Letkey.

EDITORIAL

No Booze Under 21

Our state legislators are considering measures to take the privilege of buying beer and booze away from girls under 21.

This is a privilege our youngsters can well do without and we're all for this amendment to state laws raising the age of purchase to 21.

Passage of the measure can't help but have some effect on teenage consumption of alcoholic beverages.

However, legislators can legislate and legislate again and they'll never get to the real meat and matter of this problem.

What's really needed is a law denying liquor to parents who lack the mental capacity and control of adults.

Drafting of such legislation, we confess, would be a rather difficult task, but the problem of teenage imbibing rests with — the parents.

When parents start paying more attention to the example they set for their children much of the problem of teenage drinking will vanish.

Unfortunately common sense and maturity can't be legislated.

An Infringement on Spring

Mother Nature continued fickle as a young deb this weekend and dumped a swooshy 5½ inches of wet snow on the area between Sunday morning and early Monday, a capricious act that caught most residents with their chains off and shovels down.

Not so the Antioch Street Department. When it became apparent Sunday afternoon that the gale was in earnest, Ed Simonsen gathered his crew, unlimbered snow equipment and went to the task at hand.

With two plows and a grader, street department personnel toiled from 4 until 9 p.m. Sunday and were on the job again at 5 the next morning.

By sun-up most of the slush had been scraped from Village streets. What remained, swiftly disappeared before late risers were up and about.

This was a far cry from other areas closeby where schools were closed and traffic snarled until late morning.

Your'e Covered, Nikita

According to some "experts", we're going to have to hustle mighty hard if we're to prevent the Soviet economy from overtaking and passing ours. And, according to some Communist spokesmen, the Soviets are going to do just that in the next 10 or 15 or 20 years, or some such period of time.

The Kremlin bosses have a lot going in their favor. They've captured headlines with their Astronaut, their Congo saber-rattling, Nikita's shoe-pounding at the U.N. and other acts calculated to impress the great unwashed.

But we'd make book at any odds that Nikita and his comrades are speaking for home consumption when they talk about catching up . . . because . . . to make our living standards approximate those of the Soviet Union we'd have to get rid of four out of five of our homes, nine out of 10 telephones, 14 out of 15 miles of paved roads, 19 out of every 20 cars and trucks, and comparable reductions in many other fields.

We're that far ahead.

This is no argument for complacency . . . or for underestimating Soviet achievements in science, industry or any other field.

But it makes no sense to minimize our own achievements . . . or to ignore the fact that the American system has done more for more people and come farther in a shorter period of time than any other economic or political system known to man.

Courthouse Notebook —

BY LOU DUKIN

The past week has been another special week, this time "Lock Your Door Week," a promotional device fostered by Tony Doheny, County Court probation officer and Pat Clavey, juvenile officer for the sheriff's office among others.

Durkin

The laudable purpose was to cut down on the number of auto thefts by removing temptation from the path of youngsters who might find an unlocked car too entrancing and thus embark on a life of crime. This is a most noteworthy aim and under normal conditions one in which we could find little room for argument.

However, our sense of objectivity has been somewhat shaken in recent days on this subject because we had our car stolen in broad daylight, less than a block from the Waukegan police station.

Since reading and hearing about national "Lock Your Car Week" we have developed a strong guilt complex and feel more like a culprit than a victim, particularly since we left the car doors unlocked so that a group of 14 year olds were lured from the paths of righteousness and down the primrose path of crime.

Somehow we find ourselves accused for having the temerity and crust to leave our property on a public street without taking unusual precautions to lock it and perhaps chain it to the parking meter post after carefully removing the rotor from the distributor.

This twisting of the responsibility for a crime from the accused to the victim has long been a favorite device of defense attorneys, but somehow it seems shocking to find people charged with the responsibility for enforcing laws blaming the victim because his property was stolen.

And yet we shouldn't have been surprised because that has been a growing tendency in our courts and in our jury decisions for several years.

The courts and juries, buttressed by public opinion have been leaning over backwards to protect the rights and liberties of those accused of a crime and have given the back of their hands to the pure victim who apparently, as a law-abiding citizen has fewer rights than the person accused of a crime.

I think it's about time we had a national "Get Your Cotton-Pickin' Hands Off My Property Week"

Requiem for Paul

"I think the best thing I did was to get a pension back for a fireman's widow."

With that remark, Aurora's colorful, stormy Paul Egan modestly summed up his eight tumultuous years as mayor of this Fox River town in Kane County.

And with the passing of "Oom" Paul, is laid to rest one of the most colorful and debatable characters that ever invaded the political arena.

The defeat of Paul Egan by his retired-schoolteacher opponent was the subject of headlines and editorials throughout the Midwest earlier this month — most of them derogatory.

But let's go back a bit. Aurora is an industrial town astride the meandering Fox River some 35 miles southwest of Chicago. A fairly well-to-do town because of its shops and factories, the town has naturally attracted its share of those with ready cash and a Saturday night desire to spend it.

Before such things were closely legislated — and strictly enforced — Aurora had developed its own tidy little bordello where the going rate for companions of the evening was somewhat less than the minimum bet allowed on the bangtails.

This four-five block square section was a crazy mixture of the old East St. Louis "Valley" and a bit of back-alley Vegas. Slots rang merrily; the "books" cleaned up, and the houses were alive with sports on the town.

This was prewar. During and after the war things quieted down. However, although quieter and more restrained, order was brought via organization. Operations continued along just as profitably, or more so than before, to the Kane County syndicate interest, the grubby "books"; the slime operating the brothels . . . and, of course, easily greased officials.

The area settled into a respectability of sorts. But you could still share an evening with a dolly, bet your favorite at Santa Anita or sit in on a game without much searching.

The dollars flowed in, along the devious chain of payola; and then out to the various elements of Kane County underworld and their peers elsewhere.

All was serene. The various elements of the organization were greedy, but happy. Most were content — excepting the churches, the more civic-minded element and the housewives in the fringe area who might answer the door anytime of the day or night to be greeted by some leering sport seeking "Sarah", "Toots" or some such.

No one denied the situation existed; no one raised much fuss. Then, in early 1953, along came Paul, a character in need of a job. In Paul's own words to reporters earlier this month when notified of his defeat —

"I came out of nowhere. I wanted this job real bad. I worked hard for it and got it. I didn't have a job then. I was on unemployment compensation of $27.50 a week . . ."

Well, Paul got elected mayor — not because he was on relief, or because he wore tennis shoes with his suits, or because his tie never seemed to nestle up to his collar, or because he couldn't speak a sentence without interspersing some choice "muleskinner's" lingo.

No, citizens figured Paul was honest — or, at least anything would be better than what they had. So Paul was elected.

During his first four years, among other things, Paul Egan

- 1—Fired eight police chiefs.
- 2—Threw a few fists at a JP during a council meeting—
- 3—Wrote letters to the Soviet premier and the Pope lambasting the local situation—
- 4—Wrote letters to President Eisenhower and Gov. Stratton requesting troops to "maintain order"—
- 5—Hired a young press agent lovely as police chief—
- 6—Installed a woman wrestler as sergeant-at-arms—
- 7—Used his spectacles as weapon on a lady employee branding her "an evil woman".

And so it goes. Paul did all those things and more. He was good copy. He had color. His speaking engagements were many and he spread Aurora's "fame" far and wide.

Those who live in Aurora and know Aurora also know that you have to look long and hard to lay a $2 bill on the nose or to engage a lady for the evening, and other activities which used to be common.

They know too that Paul was honest. They might have questioned his methods and his motives . . . never his honesty.

He cleaned the joint up. His successor — Jay L. Hunter — said on being elected: "I'll take immediate steps to restore order here. Aurora's city government is now in a shambles."

Fine, Mr. Hunter — and we hope you keep it honest.

from

By Rep. PAUL SIMON

There is no single issue which gives a legislator as much heartache and frustration as the care of the mentally retarded.

Parents who have a mentally retarded child who must be institutionalized frequently face unbelievable problems. Within the past week I have been contacted twice by parents with children they can no longer control, children who represent a physical and emotional danger to the other children in the family.

When they come pleading for help, it is terrible to have to say, "I don't think there is much I can do which can help you immediately."

Illinois has two institutions for the mentally retarded, one at Lincoln and one at Dixon, with a total of more than 10,000. The Lincoln institution is the largest of its kind in the world.

Both places are badly overcrowded.

What is even worse, there are almost 2,000 on the list awaiting admission. Right now, the waiting period for a child to be placed is about three years.

There is some light, however, in an otherwise gloomy picture. Here are some things that are happening:

(1) A 585-bed institution, the Illinois State Pediatric Institute, soon will begin to accommodate some patients.

(2) A home for 300 will be made at Harrisburg, and for 750 at Centralia. Both will be new institutions, and it may be two to three years before they can accommodate these patients.

(3) A bill has been introduced with passage likely, which calls for state assistance within carefully drawn limits for those who are on the waiting list, who have been placed temporarily in privately operated care centers.

(4) A counseling program for parents of mentally retarded children who are at home probably will be begun in the fall.

(5) An additional two new institutions probably will be constructed in the northern and western part of the state. This is still in the "talk" stage, so these institutions are at least three years away.

When—and if—we have all of these things, the problem will not be solved, but it will be improved.

Somewhat related to this same field is the progress being made by more and more school districts in giving opportunities to the "slow learner" of limited mental capacities. The state is encouraging this work, as it should. A community has as much responsibility to help those who have a harder time helping themselves, as it does to the more gifted.

Here also, there is a long way to go, with far too many school districts doing little or nothing for these children.

One of the tests of whether a government is good or not good, was suggested some centuries ago by the question: "How do you treat your helpless?"

In Illinois, we could answer that we have much improvement to make, but we are heading in the right direction.

Backing into a curbside space, requires a sharp lookout through the rear window for approaching traffic. Often, in crowded areas, the driver following you doesn't know you're going to park, so be sure to signal him.

Your State Senator Reports

Shall we reduce the voting age in Illinois to 19 years? Such a proposition has been introduced in the present Illinois General Assembly recommending a constitutional amendment in favor of our younger citizens.

The legislature can do no more than recommend such a constitutional amendment. Then, if receiving the favorable vote of two-thirds of the members of both the Illinois House of Representatives and the State Senate, the proposition will be submitted to the voters at the regular election in November, 1962.

Qualifications of voters (with certain limitations) are regulated by the states.

So far, only two states (Georgia and Kentucky) have granted voting rights to 18 year olds, but the legislatures of several other states are also considering similar propositions at the present time.

The most popular argument in favor of 19 year old voters is that "If they're old enough to fight, they're old enough to vote." Of course, it doesn't necessarily follow that a young and pliable youth possessing the reckless courage so desirable in a soldier would also have the maturity and stability we seek in a qualified voter. Also, it might be argued, "They're not old enough to fight, either."

Parents, teachers and others who have frequent contact with our young men and women between 19 and 21 will confirm that many of them are better informed on political issues and candidates than their elders. This is a rational argument in favor of reducing the voting age. In fact, the ultimate decision as to whether the right to vote is to be accorded to our youth of 19, should be controlled by the answer to this question: "Do a majority of the young men and women at 19 possess the information and sound judgment to entitle them to vote?"

Unfortunately, only the now qualified voters (those 21 years of age and older) will be permitted to decide this question. And many of them will not be too well informed on whether our younger citizens have the knowledge and judgment possessed by the present electorate. However, the writer has been impressed by the number of young men and women, aged 19 and 20, who themselves feel that they are not yet "ready" to vote.

The measure is not without its political implications. Quite obviously, many of the loudest proponents are simply appealing to younger voters for votes. At the risk of such a charge, the writer has consistently urged that the proposition should be submitted to popular referendum. Then, the people can decide the issue.

Drafting of such legislation, we confess, would be a rather difficult task, but the problem of teenage imbibing rests with — the parents.

When parents start paying more attention to the example they set for their children much of the problem of teenage drinking will vanish.

Unfortunately common sense and maturity can't be legislated.

An Infringement on Spring

Mother Nature continued fickle as a young deb this weekend and dumped a swooshy 5½ inches of wet snow on the area between Sunday morning and early Monday, a capricious act that caught most residents with their chains off and shovels down.

Not so the Antioch Street Department. When it became apparent Sunday afternoon that the gale was in earnest, Ed Simonsen gathered his crew, unlimbered snow equipment and went to the task at hand.

With two plows and a grader, street department personnel toiled from 4 until 9 p.m. Sunday and were on the job again at 5 the next morning.

By sun-up most of the slush had been scraped from Village streets. What remained, swiftly disappeared before late risers were up and about.

This was a far cry from other areas closeby where schools were closed and traffic snarled until late morning.

Your'e Covered, Nikita

According to some "experts", we're going to have to hustle mighty hard if we're to prevent the Soviet economy from overtaking and passing ours. And, according to some Communist spokesmen, the Soviets are going to do just that in the next 10 or 15 or 20 years, or some such period of time.

The Kremlin bosses have a lot going in their favor. They've captured headlines with their Astronaut, their Congo saber-rattling, Nikita's shoe-pounding at the U.N. and other acts calculated to impress the great unwashed.

But we'd make book at any odds that Nikita and his comrades are speaking for home consumption when they talk about catching up . . . because . . . to make our living standards approximate those of the Soviet Union we'd have to get rid of four out of five of our homes, nine out of 10 telephones, 14 out of 15 miles of paved roads, 19 out of every 20 cars and trucks, and comparable reductions in many other fields.

We're that far ahead.

This is no argument for complacency . . . or for underestimating Soviet achievements in science, industry or any other field.

But it makes no sense to minimize our own achievements . . . or to ignore the fact that the American system has done more for more people and come farther in a shorter period of time than any other economic or political system known to man.

Requiem for Paul

"I think the best thing I did was to get a pension back for a fireman's widow."

With that remark, Aurora's colorful, stormy Paul Egan modestly summed up his eight tumultuous years as mayor of this Fox River town in Kane County.

And with the passing of "Oom" Paul, is laid to rest one of the most colorful and debatable characters that ever invaded the political arena.

The defeat of Paul Egan by his retired-schoolteacher opponent was the subject of headlines and editorials throughout the Midwest earlier this month — most of them derogatory.

But let's go back a bit. Aurora is an industrial town astride the meandering Fox River some 35 miles southwest of Chicago. A fairly well-to-do town because of its shops and factories, the town has naturally attracted its share of those with ready cash and a Saturday night desire to spend it.

Before such things were closely legislated — and strictly enforced — Aurora had developed its own tidy little bordello where the going rate for companions of the evening was somewhat less than the minimum bet allowed on the bangtails.

This four-five block square section was a crazy mixture of the old East St. Louis "Valley" and a bit of back-alley Vegas. Slots rang merrily, the "books" cleaned up, and the houses were alive with sports on the town.

This was prewar. During and after the war things quieted down. However, although quieter and more restrained, order was brought by organization. Operations continued along just as profitably, or more so than before, to the Kane County syndicate interest, the grubby "books"; the slime operating the brothels . . . and, of course, easily greased officials.

The area settled into a respectability of sorts. But you could still share an evening with a dolly, bet your favorite at Santa Anita or sit in on a game without much searching.

The dollars flowed in, along the devious chain of payola, and then out to the various elements of Kane County underworld and their peers elsewhere.

All was serene. The various elements of the organization were greedy, but happy. Most were content — excepting the churches, the more civic-minded element and the housewives in the fringe area who might answer the door anytime of the day or night to be greeted by some leering sport seeking "Sarah", "Toots" or some such.

No one denied the situation existed; no one raised much fuss. Then, in early 1953, along came Paul, a character in need of a job. In Paul's own words to reporters earlier this month when notified of his defeat —

"I came out of nowhere. I wanted this job real bad. I worked hard for it and got it. I didn't have a job then. I was on unemployment compensation of $27.50 a week . . ."

Well, Paul got elected mayor — not because he was on relief, or because he wore tennis shoes with his suits, or because his tie never seemed to nestle up to his collar, or because he couldn't speak a sentence without interspersing some choice "muleskinner's" lingo.

No, citizens figured Paul was honest — or, at least anything would be better than what they had. So Paul was elected.

During his first four years, among other things, Paul Egan

- 1—Fired eight police chiefs.
- 2—Threw a few fists at a JP during a council meeting—
- 3—Wrote letters to the Soviet premier and the Pope lambasting the local situation—
- 4—Wrote letters to President Eisenhower and Gov. Stratton requesting troops to "maintain order"—
- 5—Hired a young press agent lovely as police chief—
- 6—Installed a woman wrestler as sergeant-at-arms—
- 7—Used his spectacles as weapon on a lady employee branding her "an evil woman".

And so it goes. Paul did all those things and more. He was good copy. He had color. His speaking engagements were many and he spread Aurora's "fame" far and wide.

This, his constituents know. Those who live in Aurora and know Aurora also know that you have to look long and hard to lay a $2 bill on the nose or to engage a lady for the evening, and other activities which used to be common.

They know too that Paul was honest. They might have questioned his methods and his motives . . . never his honesty.

He cleaned the joint up.

His successor — Jay L. Hunter — said on being elected: "I'll take immediate steps to restore order here. Aurora's city government is now in a shambles."

Fine, Mr. Hunter — and we hope you keep it honest.

Your State Senator Reports

Shall we reduce the voting age in Illinois to 19 years? Such a proposition has been introduced in the present Illinois General Assembly recommending a constitutional amendment in favor of our younger citizens.

The legislature can do no more than recommend such a constitutional amendment. Then, if receiving the favorable vote of two-thirds of the members of both the Illinois House of Representatives and the State Senate, the proposition will be submitted to the voters at the regular election in November, 1962.

Qualifications of voters (with certain limitations) are regulated by the states.

So far, only two states (Georgia and Kentucky) have granted voting rights to 18 year olds, but the legislatures of several other states are also considering similar propositions at the present time.

The most popular argument in favor of 19 year old voters is that "if they're old enough to fight, they're old enough to vote." Of course, it doesn't necessarily follow that a young and pliable youth possessing the reckless courage so desirable in a soldier would also have the maturity and stability we seek in a qualified voter. Also, it might be argued, "They're not old enough to fight, either."

Parents, teachers and others who have frequent contact with our young men and women between 19 and 21 will confirm that many of them are better informed on political issues and candidates than their elders. This is a rational argument in favor of reducing the voting age. In fact, the ultimate decision as to whether the right to vote is to be accorded to our youth of 19, should be controlled by the answer to this question: "Do a majority of the young men and women at 19 possess the information and sound judgment to entitle them to vote?"

Unfortunately, only the now qualified voters (those 21 years of age and older) will be permitted to decide this question. And many of them will not be too well informed on whether our younger citizens have the knowledge and judgment possessed by the present electorate. However, the writer has been impressed by the number of young men and women, aged 19 and 20, who themselves feel that they are not yet "ready" to vote.

The measure is not without its political implications. Quite obviously, many of the loudest proponents are simply appealing to younger voters for votes. At the risk of such a charge, the writer has consistently urged that the proposition should be submitted to popular referendum. Then, the people can decide the issue.

Courthouse Notebook —

BY LOU DURKIN

The past week has been another special week, this time "Lock Your Door Week," a promotional device fostered by Tony Doheny, County Court probation officer and Pat Clavey, juvenile officer for the sheriff's office among others.

Durkin

The laudable purpose was to cut down on the number of auto thefts by removing temptation from the path youngsters who might find an unlocked car too entrancing and thus embark on a life of crime. This is a most noteworthy aim and under normal conditions one in which we could find little room for argument.

However, our sense of objectivity has been somewhat shaken in recent days on this subject because we had our car stolen in broad daylight, less than a block from the Waukegan police station.

Since reading and hearing about national "Lock Your Car Week" we have developed a strong guilt complex and feel more like a culprit than a victim, particularly since we left the car doors unlocked so that a group of 14 year olds were lured from the paths of righteousness and down the primrose path of crime.

Somehow we find ourselves accused for having the temerity and crust to leave our property on a public street without taking unusual precautions to lock it and perhaps chain it to the parking meter post after carefully removing the rotor from the distributor.

This twisting of the responsibility for a crime from the accused to the victim has long been a favorite device of defense attorneys, but somehow it seems shocking to find people charged with the responsibility for enforcing laws blaming the victim because his property was stolen.

And yet we shouldn't have been surprised because that has been a growing tendency in our courts and in our jury decisions for several years.

The courts and juries, buttressed by public opinion have been leaning over backwards to protect the rights and liberties of those accused of a crime and have given the back of their hands to the pure victim who apparently, as a law-abiding citizen has fewer rights than the person accused of a crime.

I think it's about time we had a national "Get Your Cotton-Pickin' Hands Off My Property Week"

SIDELIGHTS from SPRINGFIELD

By Rep. PAUL SIMON

There is no single issue which gives a legislator as much heartache and frustration as the care of the mentally retarded.

Parents who have a mentally retarded child who must be institutionalized frequently face unbelievable problems. Within the past week I have been contacted twice by parents with children they can no longer control, children who represent a physical and emotional danger to the other children in the family.

When they come pleading for help, it is terrible to have to say, "I don't think there is much I can do which can help you immediately."

Illinois has two institutions for the mentally retarded, one at Lincoln and one at Dixon, with a total of more than 10,000. The Lincoln institution is the largest of its kind in the world.

Both places are badly overcrowded.

What is even worse, there are almost 2,000 on the list awaiting admission. Right now, the waiting period for a child to be placed is about three years.

There is some light, however, in an otherwise gloomy picture.

Here are some things that are happening:

(1) A 585-bed institution, the Illinois State Pediatric Institute, soon will begin to accommodate some patients.

(2) A home for 300 will be made at Harrisburg, and for 750 at Centralia. Both will be new institutions, and it may be two to three years before they can accommodate these patients.

(3) A bill has been introduced with passage likely, which calls for state assistance within carefully drawn limits for those who are on the waiting list, who have been placed temporarily in privately operated care centers.

(4) A counseling program for parents of mentally retarded children who are at home probably will be begun in the fall.

(5) An additional two new institutions probably will be constructed in the northern and western part of the state. This is still in the "talk" stage, so these institutions are at least three years away.

When—and if—we have all of these things, the problem will not be solved, but it will be improved.

Somewhat related to this same field is the progress being made by more and more school districts in giving opportunities to the "slow learner" of limited mental capacities. The state is encouraging this work, as it should. A community has as much responsibility to help those who have a harder time helping themselves, as it does to the more gifted.

Here also, there is a long way to go, with far too many school districts doing little or nothing for these children.

One of the tests of whether a government is good or not good, was suggested some centuries ago by the question: "How do you treat your helpless?"

In Illinois we could answer that we have much improvement to make, but we are heading in the right direction.

Backing into a curbside space, requires a sharp lookout through the rear window for approaching traffic. Often, in crowded areas, the driver following you doesn't know you're going to park, so be sure to signal him.

County Museum Builds New Exhibits Around Civil War

Lake County's part in the Civil War will jump into sharp focus when the Lake County Museum of History opens its doors May 2 for another season.

The museum, located on Wadsworth Road just east of Skokie Highway, has been completely remodeled inside to provide room for 32 Civil War exhibits created by the staff.

The exhibits include the museum's outstanding collections of Civil War weapons, military articles, documents, manuscripts and photographs.

All are arranged to tell a comprehensive and understandable story of the county's part in the war.

An added attraction, according to Robert Vogel, museum director and official Lake County historian, will be a sound track featuring Civil War music and anecdotes about county participation in the war.

The "sound" exhibit is being prepared under the supervision of Dave Davis, news director of radio station WKRS, Waukegan.

Almost all the other exhibits in the museum have been changed in some way this year, Vogel said. The most extensive changes were made in the "Indian Hall"—a series of displays portraying Indian life in the county from prehistoric times to the coming of white settlers.

Other exhibits include lifesize representations of an old music store, a scene from the Spanish-American War, a settlers log cabin, a general store and a 19th century blacksmith shop.

Vogel said the museum staff, mostly volunteers, worked throughout the winter in the museum building to construct the new exhibits.

"We are continuing to work for a new museum building in which to properly house our exhibits, but we couldn't let the opening of the Civil War Centennial go by without trying to provide the best possible new exhibits even if it meant placing them in the present, unsatisfactory building," Vogel said.

Vogel added that all the exhibits in the museum could be used with few changes when the museum did get another building.

Besides the exhibits the museum is planning at least five special days for the public.

One will be a Memorial Day celebration on the museum grounds. Two Civil War weapons shoots, an antique automobile meeting and an old-time threshing bee are also planned.

On the museum grounds there are three trout ponds where fishermen may try their luck at snaring fish brought in from Missouri.

During the early part of the season, the museum is open Tuesdays through Saturdays from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. It is open Sundays from noon until 5 p.m. The museum is closed Mondays.

Admission is 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for children between six and 12. Children under six are admitted free.

Vogel said the museum is a non-profit corporation without tax support or endowment and all donations and proceeds from admissions and the trout ponds go to help maintain the museum.

Last year more than 20,000 persons visited the museum, he said.

Contained in the hull of the huge attack aircraft carrier USS Franklin D. Roosevelt are 242 miles of electrical cable, 2,000 electric motors and a generating plant capable of supplying electrical power to 4 million homes.

Statewide PTA Meeting to Be Held April 27-29

"Time to Care"—theme of the 59th Annual Convention of the Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers, to be held at the Conrad Hilton Hotel, Chicago, April 27-29, will be stressed at the opening meeting.

More than 3,500 delegates and approximately 1,000 visitors are expected to attend these meetings, representing the 700,000 in membership in over 2,450 local associations of the Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers. They will receive greetings from Mayor Richard Daley and a representative of the administration of the Chicago Public Schools.

Two of the six sections of conferences scheduled during the convention will take place on Thursday afternoon. These are led by the chairmen of the Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers and are attended by their respective chairmen of local units.

Speaker of the evening will be

Dr. John Furbay of New York, educator and an internationally known lecturer, who will speak on "Education in a Changing World." On Friday, at the morning meeting, a report of the scholarship and loan fund of the Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers will be presented by Mrs. Martin Selfert, Wilmette.

Four additional section meetings will be held on Saturday, two in the morning and two in the afternoon. Again these conferences will be conducted by the state chairmen.

Seaman Hucker Serves Aboard Support Carrier

WESTERN PACIFIC—John E. Hucker, seaman, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Hucker of Route 3, Antioch, is serving aboard the anti-submarine warfare support aircraft carrier USS Kearsarge operating in the Western Pacific.

The Kearsarge, a unit of the Seventh Fleet, is the "hub" of Hunter-Killer Group Alfa, a trained Navy team of submarine killers composed of carriers, destroyers, submarines, carrier-based planes and helicopters.

The carrier serves as a fast-moving airbase, command and communications center where track is kept of all units participating, and where positions and records of submarine contacts are plotted and maintained.

The ship is scheduled to visit Hong Kong, Japan, Okinawa and the Philippines.

Renowned Pianist In Concert For Handicapped

George Banham, internationally famous concert pianist, will make his Chicago debut for the Grove School for handicapped children on Friday, May 12 at 8:15 p.m. in the Lake Forest High School Auditorium.

Banham, former official pianist for the Hungarian Philharmonic Institute and the Budapest Radio, has won five of the outstanding piano awards given on the European Continent. He is winner of the Geneva, Bartok, Liszt, Chopin, and Queen Elizabeth, Brussels awards. When he was forced to flee his native land at the time of the Hungarian Freedom Fight, he came to America and joined with Fritz Reiner as staff pianist for the Chicago Symphony Orchestra. Mr. Reiner has declared him to be a "young pianist of virtuoso skill."

Grove School, founded in November, 1958, now serves 12 children from Lake County with severe learning problems. It is situated in the former Oak Grove rural school building at Buckley and O'Plaine Roads in Libertyville Township.

Tickets can be obtained at the Record Nook, 943 Main St.

750 County Families Assisted by Red Cross To Date in 1961

Since the first of January more than 750 families have received assistance through the home service program of the Lake County chapter of the American Red Cross.

Mrs. Lauraine Blair, home service director, said: "The home service office is the place in each community to which families of servicemen and veterans are invited to bring their questions, concerns, and requests for assistance. It is also the official connecting link between the family here and the serviceman stationed anywhere in the world."

The Lake County Red Cross home service program offers five specific services to servicemen, veterans, and their families. They are: counseling service, communication service, reporting service, assistance with government benefits, and financial help.

Counseling Service
If a problem is too difficult to handle alone, home service will talk it over with the serviceman or family in strict confidence suggesting ways in which the problem can be solved. A wife may be having difficulties with a problem child, or may be disturbed over having to find new living quarters. These problems are discussed and plans made with the wife to work out some arrangement, thus eliminating her anxiety.

Both parents are welcome and encouraged to attend. There is no charge for the course.

Retired-Civil Service Workers Face Deadline For Benefit Filing

Joseph A. Connor, director of the 7th U. S. Civil Service Region, Chicago, today reminded retired Federal employees and survivor annuitants eligible for coverage under the Retired Federal Employees Health Benefits Act that they must file their election cards by April 30, to enroll in the health insurance program. Those choosing not to enroll are also requested to file by that date. If they do not file by April 30, they will be listed as not wanting to enroll.

Connor issued this warning because only one-fourth of the 31,224 persons eligible for benefits under the new Act in the region's three-state area had signed up in the first 30 days of this 60-day registration period, ending April 30. The 7th region comprises the State of Illinois, Michigan and Wisconsin. Registration kits were mailed to most eligible annuitants in February, and the mailing was completed

early in March.

Although the effective date of the benefits of the Act is July 1, 1961,
Connor emphasized that the April 30 date is not an arbitrary deadline. He pointed out that prior to July 1 all registrations must be checked to assure that they are cor-

Wauconda 9 Dumps Antioch

The game between Grant and Antioch High, scheduled Tuesday, was postponed because of wet grounds. Playing date for this game will be announced soon. Antioch will meet Round Lake there, Friday, April 21.

Antioch's luckless Sequoia nine lost another heartbreaker last Friday, when an inspired sixth-inning rally failed to overtake the Wauconda Bulldogs, who slipped by their first season victory, 5-4.

Wauconda entered the top of the sixth with a 5-1 lead, and that's when Larry Leon's Sequoia rebounded with a three-run rally against Reliever John Kallas to close the gap to one run.

With one down, Bill Ozga singled and Jim Brownlee walked. Mike Horn forced Ozga at third for the second out, but Ron Gable walked to load the bases.

Denman singled to right, scoring both Brownlee and Horn and sending Gable to third. Gable scored on a single by Joe Pleviak. Denman was out at third on an attempted double steal. Lang was forced out trying to take third, for the final out, and the game was called because of darkness.

The Bulldogs jumped off to a 3-0 lead against Ozga in the first inning, and added another run in the second with the aid of an error to pad the lead to 4-0.

The Sequoia came through with a run in the top of the fourth on hits by Jack Thompson and Ozga. The Bulldogs followed at bat and racked up one more run on an error, ending the scoring until the Sequoia surge in the sixth.

The loss, third conference defeat for Antioch, dropped them into last place. Despite the won-loss showing, however, Coach Leon isn't crying the blues over season prospects. The Sequoia have dropped these games by a total of five runs.

Defensively the squad has showed up well. The few fielding miscues have come at the wrong time, and invariably have opened the gates to winning scores by the opposition.

Offensively, the squad has lacked a telling punch, although the stickwork by Ozga and Pleviak has been among brighter spots in games to date.

Pitching has been sound, with both Ozga and Denman exhibiting good form.

Go dial in style

Antioch telephones will soon be converted to dial with actual changeover to this modern dial system taking place this summer.

Two special features of your new dial system will be: Direct Distance Dialing (DDD). This lets you dial long distance without going through the operator. And All Number Calling (ANC) which gives you a new style, 7-figure, national telephone number.

To "go dial in style", make your telephone a key part of your decorating scheme — have color phones installed. When the installer visits your home, he'll be happy to show you telephones in the nine, new, decorator colors.

Have convenient extension phones installed in those rooms where you spend a lot of time — the kitchen, bedroom and living room. Then you'll reach (not run) when the phone rings. An extension phone costs little. And, if it's installed when your phone is prepared for dial, there's no installation charge!

Yes! "Go dial in style"

ILLINOIS BELL TELEPHONE

Every Bell Telephone employee carries an identification card. When the installer calls to put in your dial phone, he'll be glad to show you his card.

Take your choice of table model (left), Princess (center) or wall phone. The new Princess has a modern, oval shape, it fits anywhere... and the dial lights up, too. Cost? Just pennies a day, after a one-time charge.
